

An introduction to Learning Disability

This course is for any one who is new to working with people with learning disabilities or for people who want to have a better understanding of the needs of this group of people.

On this course you explore the meaning of learning disability and look at how you can improve your own practice to ensure a person is supported effectively.

Learning Outcomes

- Define what is meant by the term learning disabilities
- Explore the impact of a learning disability on individuals' needs
- Examine ways to effectively communicate that may be used with individuals with learning disabilities.
- Discover ways to overcome negative attitudes and assumptions when supporting an individual with a learning disability
- Explore ways of making your own practice more inclusive for individuals with learning disabilities

The course can either be booked as INSET or as part of our open workshops. This is a one course which is run over 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ hours.
